Administration

Spending his leisure time after making decisions at a Board Meeting, Member C. A. Allen is shown engaged in lapidary art.

Children play an important role in the life of Board Member, Mrs. Mildred M. Gilmour, who after determining policies for school children is shown enjoying the demands of her grandson.

In his own home Superintendent Irvin A. Shimmin is superintendent of maintenance. Manual labor helps relieve the tension of the office.

With a Flourish of the

After putting in a hard day's work in his Firestone store, Mr. Carleton E. Hadley, President, still finds the time to be active on the Board.

Gracious lady of the Bonelli Ranch is an active Board Member, Mrs. Mary P. Bonelli, who was away and could not be photographed casually.

Taking time out from his duties, Member, Mr. Julio J. Lombardi, relaxes through music with two of his five lovely children.

Mr. Gerbracht is shown offering criticisms of a painting created by Bill Brandt, while other members of the class work hard at their projects.

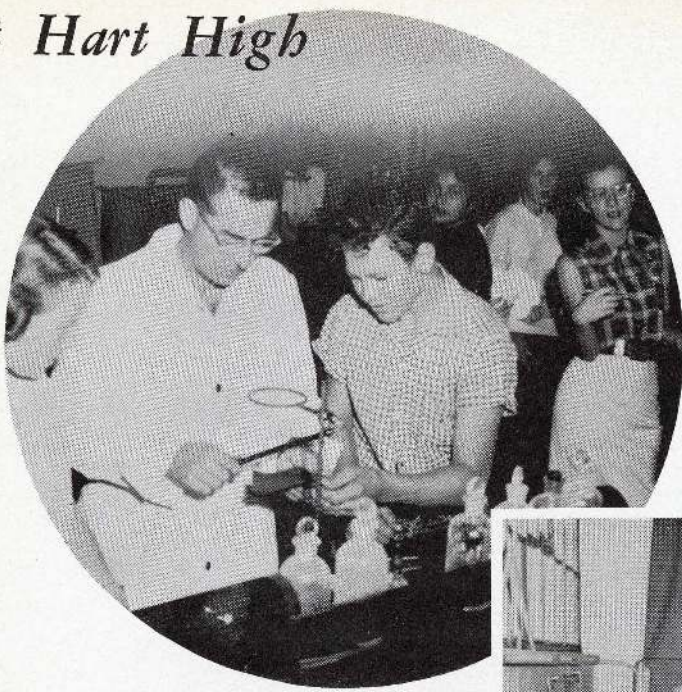

U. S. History advisor, Mr. Barnhill, discusses possibilities of a topic to be used by a panel of Eleventh grade students. Panel discussions are only one of the activities used by the History classes to further their historical studies.

With awed expressions, DuWayne March and Dorothy Kober observe Pat Deem putting final touches on a picture produced in Hart's own photography room.

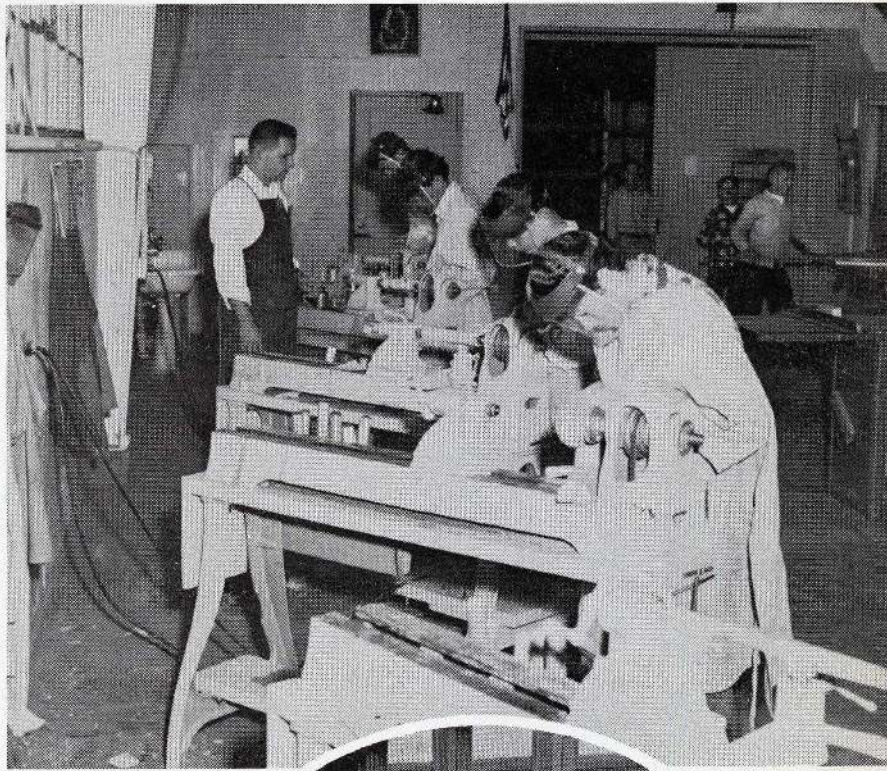

At Hart High

General science and Biology classes meet under the tutorage of Mr. Stanford who here instructs a group of freshmen in the mysteries of static electricity. Shocking subject, what!

In the woodshop, boys learn first of all the use of hand tools. Having mastered these skills, students are permitted to use power machinery. At right four advanced woodworkers tool wood on power lathes. Mr. Zelina stands by watchfully to lend a hand.

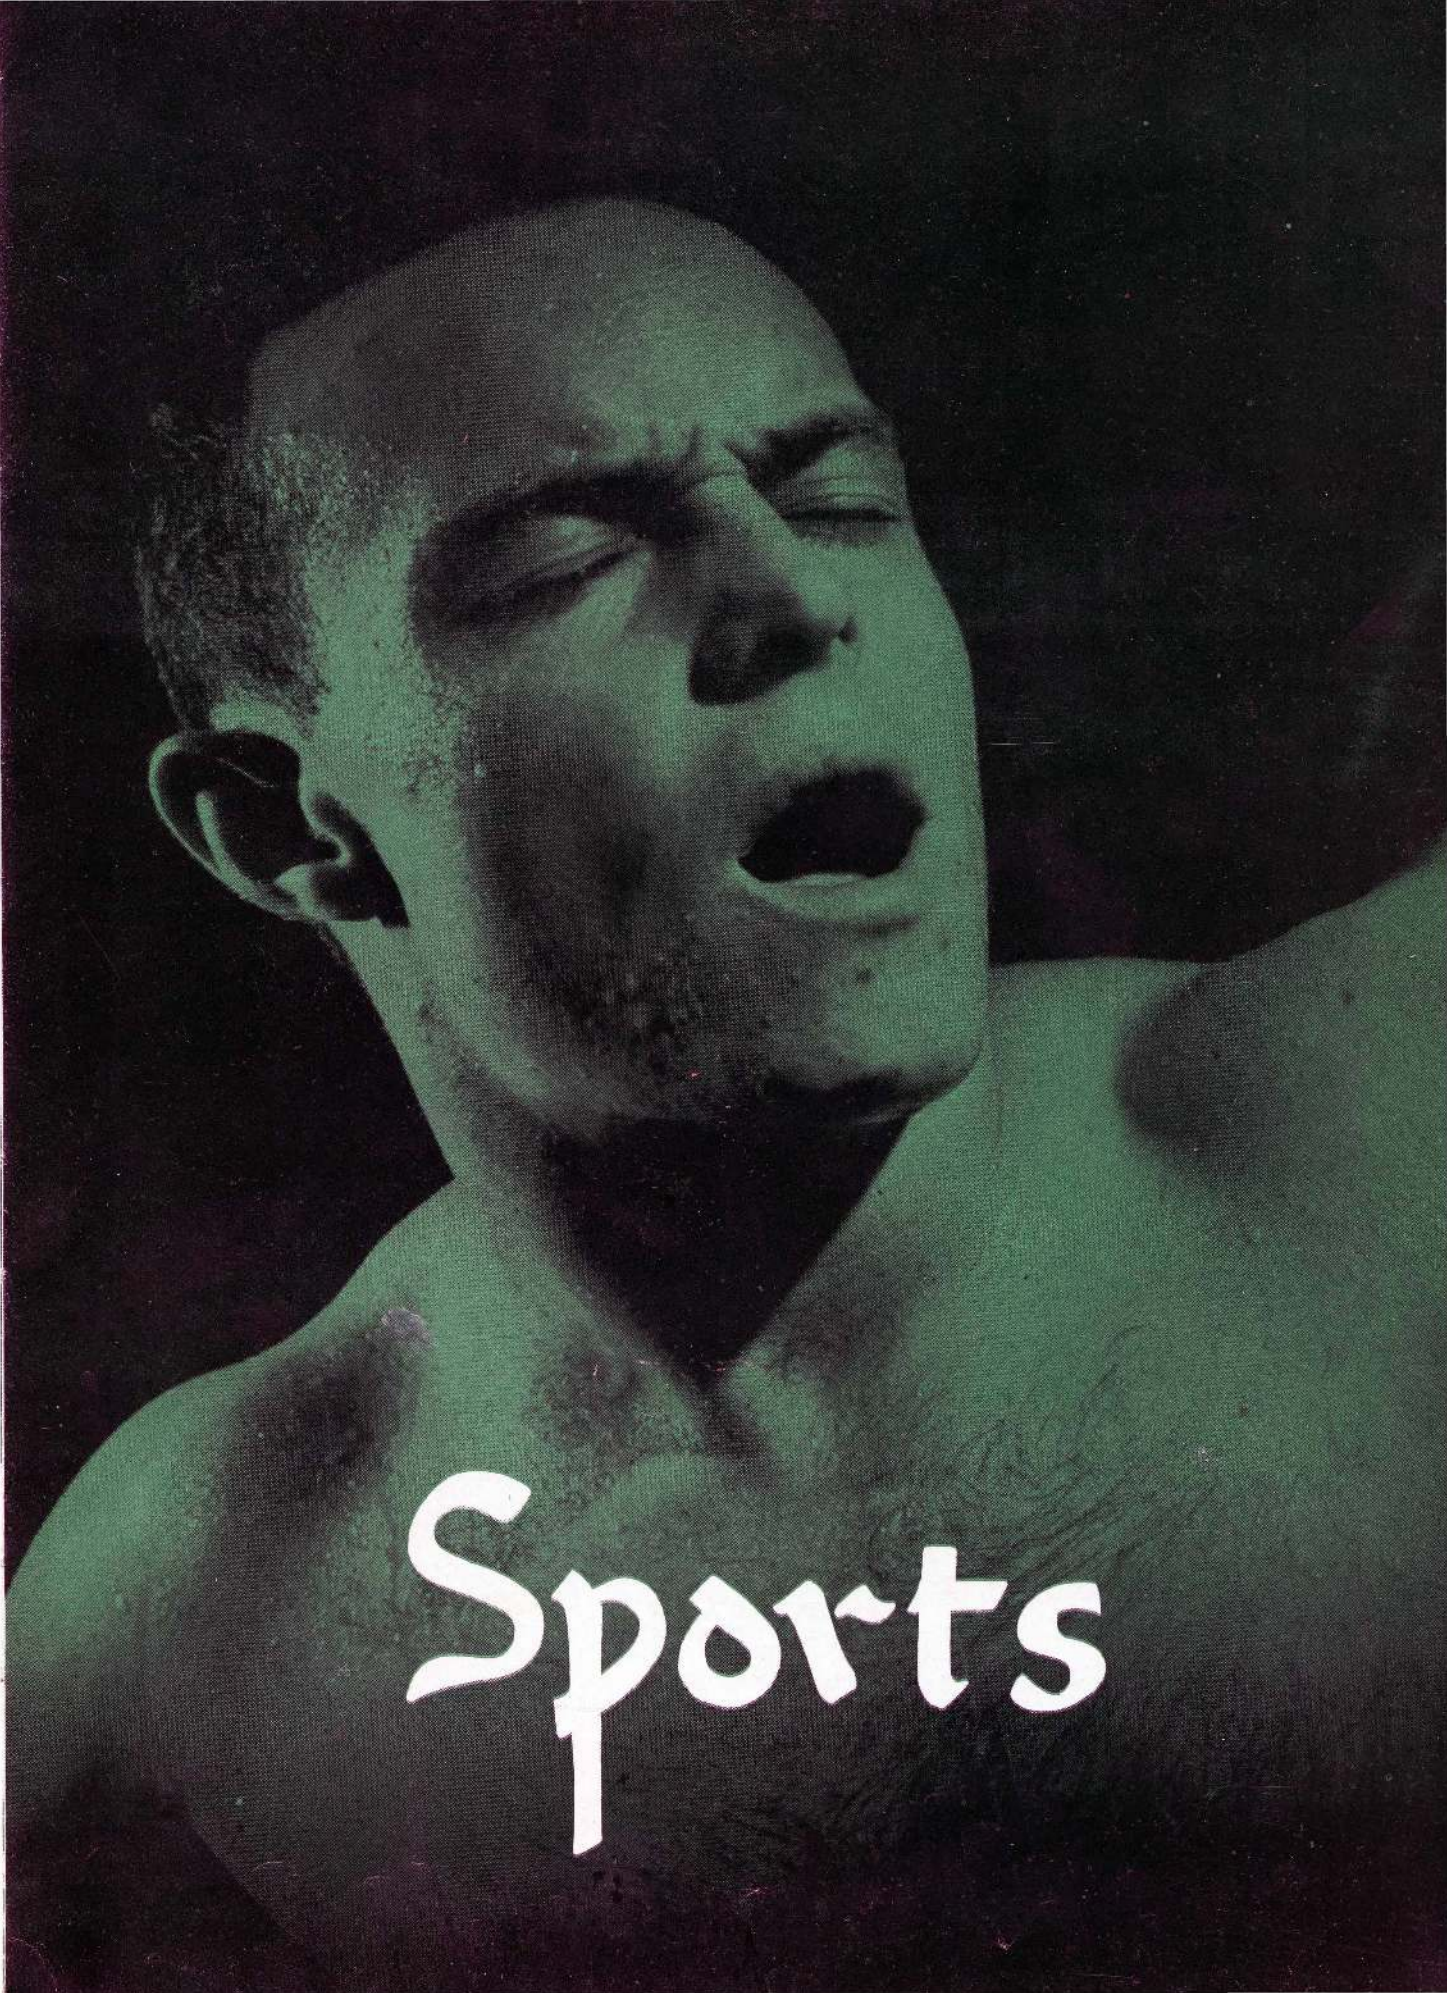

Blouses, formals, tablecloths, knitted dice and sundry other object de stich are conjured up in Miss McCulley's sewing classes. At right a group of Indianettes create with needle and thread.
